“To see England properly, I recommend viewing it from the saddle, for the smell and creaking of leather and the company of a horse give it an atmosphere imaginative people can today only find in old novels”
A F Tschiffely, Bridle Paths 1935

Stately Rides has been inspired by our passion for rural England, its magnificent country houses and of course our love of horses. Riding through beautiful, romantic countryside and staying in gracious private homes, you will escape the stress and turmoil of the modern world. Parties of up to 6 will enjoy delicious lunches, candlelit dinners and champagne along the way. Mannerly horses will be provided to suit various levels of ability. Rides vary from 2 to 4 days, with an average of 4 to 6 hours each day spent in the saddle.

The England you will see from horseback is the England of Anne Boleyn and Samuel Palmer, of poets and painters. Our aim is to reveal the astonishing beauty and diversity of the countryside and challenge the perception of modern Britain as a once beautiful land now largely ruined by urbanisation.

“Is there any other country with homesteads, mansions, gardens, woods, such as there are in England.”

William Cobbett famous for his book Rural Rides, 1835
